- ◆ NEVER give a lamb feed that contains copper as copper is deadly to lambs.
 - NOTE: Goat feed contains copper
- ◆ Do NOT use any kind of bleach on your lamb when washing or any other time as bleach will burn the lamb's skin
- ◆ To prevent foot rot, keep your lamb in a dry area. If you suspect foot rot, contact your Species Chair immediately as foot rot is highly contagious

Tips

- ◆ ASK QUESTIONS!!! If you have questions or need help, contact the lamb species chair for answers or resources
- ◆ Lamb Selection:
 - Structure – Look for sturdy legs, sound hooves, a straight back, a wide and long loin, and the back leg should look full and meaty
 - Health – No loose stools, no runny eyes or nose. Free of cough and walk without any noticeable stiffness. Ears should not be droopy.
 - Weight – To achieve the ideal weight at fair time, the lamb should weigh 45-50 pounds at time of purchase
- ◆ Bringing the Lamb Home:
 - Prepare – Have a clean pen with shelter and shade, clean water and feed dishes
 - Feed – Know what the lamb has been fed by the breeder. A sudden change in feed can make the lamb sick
 - Bonding – The lamb will likely cry quite a bit for the first few days. Sit in the pen and make friends with the lamb. The lamb will begin relying on you for all of its needs including attention
- ◆ Training/Working with the Lamb:
 - Remain calm and keep your voice down
 - Be patient while halter training the lamb. Never pull hard on the halter; a gentle touch near its tail will usually get it to walk
 - After mastering the halter, begin working on showmanship including setting up the lamb and guiding it without a halter
- ◆ Feeding Your Lamb:
 - Grain- Grain should be given twice a day. Give them a pound in the morning and a pound at night or whatever they can eat in 15 minutes. Whichever is greater. If they are gaining too slowly, give them more grain. If they are gaining too much, cut them back.
 - Hay – Lamb should get about 1 pound of hay at morning and night
- ◆ Exercise/Muscle Building:
 - While feeding, elevate the lamb's grain dish so that the lamb has to stand and stretch to eat
 - Build Muscles By: Walking up hills, running in sand, and installing jumps in lamb pen area.
- ◆ Hot Weather:
 - Lambs tend to lose their appetite when hot, try to keep them cool ▪ If the temperature is above 90 degrees, cool the lamb down with a bath. Be sure to dry them off well.
 - Flies tend to get worse as the heat goes up – Use Avon's Skin So Soft on the fleshy non-wool parts of the lamb
 - Exercise early in the morning or late in the evening when the temperatures are lowest
- ◆ Get Ready For Fair:
 - Be sure to give your lamb a good bath before arriving at the fair
 - Wash well including the knees, belly, and armpits

- Trim the hooves
- Clean the ears (including the ear tags) – Baby oil and cotton swabs are the best way to get the ears clean
- Gather the necessary tools and supplies:
 - Feed dish and water bucket
 - Tack Box to keep items in
 - Wheelbarrow and shovel
 - Bathing supplies
 - Lamb Blanket – To keep lamb clean between bath and show time
- ◆ Show Day:
 - Attire: Clean pants/jeans (free of holes and stains); Button-down shirt
- ◆ Record Keeping:
 - Use a calendar to track:
 - Purchases (feed, tack, medication, etc)
 - Amount of grain fed
 - Weight gain
 - Worming

Cloverbuds

- ◆ 4-H members who are 5-7 years of age (as of January 1st of the current year)
- ◆ Cloverbuds have their own showmanship class on Friday of fair
- ◆ Cloverbuds may bring their own lamb to the fair OR they may choose to show someone else's lamb
- ◆ Cloverbuds are not allowed to market their lamb
- ◆ A parent, leader, or other adult must be present at all times when the Cloverbud is working with their lamb, including in the show ring
